What Children Really Need

Believe it or not, Dr. Phil isn't the expert on child development. He doesn't know everything a child needs; he wasn't the first to come up with the methods. I have almost six years of child raising experience and still feel clueless most of the time! When I was a child I always thought I knew exactly what I needed at all times and I was not often right. Fortunately, scripture speaks on this matter. The Bible has a more than adequate list of what a child really needs, or doesn't need, in life.

What a child needs!

- Children need diligent teaching (Deuteronomy 6:4-9).
- Children need to know their parents history (Psalms 78:1-9).
- Children need to know that they are valuable (Psalms 127:3-5).
- Children need training and discipline (Proverbs 22:6, 15; 23:13; 29:15).
- Children need to appreciate what their parents sacrifice for them (Proverbs 31:28).
- Children need to know the consequences (Ecclesiastes 11:9-10).
- Children need trustworthy parents (Matthew 7:10-12).
- Children need time for growth (Luke 2:42, 52).
- Colossians 3:20 Children need to honor and obey (Ephesians 6:1-2).
- Children need to be managed (1 Timothy 3:4, 12).
- Children need to know the scriptures (2 Timothy 3:15).
- Children need to believe (Titus 1:6).
- Children need to know they are loved (Titus 2:4).

What a child doesn't need!

- Children don't need stumbling blocks (Matthew 18:1-5).
- Children don't need provocation (Ephesians 6:4; Colossians 3:21).

Notice that this list is applicable for the spiritual children of God as well.

Suggestions for family activities

1. Family devotionals. Don't give up if you miss a day (Singing included).
2. Scriptures on the walls in every room.
3. Get away from the Television as much as possible and do family work projects.

Words of Wisdom

If God gave us indisputable evidence of His being, we would have no need for faith. Faith is the essence of things we may never see.
